Awaken! Open wide the mind's eye and marvel how squirls and curlicues on paper speak for those now dust. Know that there are more questions than answers, and that all answers change. Think, or someone else will do it for you — this could be disasterous.

opens fall weekend activities

Indian summer brought remembrances of fall activities reverberating in the mind like the echoes of a single soul's shouts in an empty stadium. The Lambdas pushed their "dragster" to a victory at the Phi Sig's drag race. Smoke. Burning leaves . . . the Tri Sig-Sigma Chi Barbecue — I can smell that spicy chicken now. West campus was really the scene of all the action. Even the Fall Extravaganza — man that was wild: the mud slide, the girlie show, the basketball throw. Yes, soon basketball will be here for real. The chariot race was a big thing too. Wow, what crazy Romans. The Sig Eps crossed the finish line in a cloud of dust. And the leaves burned.

Homecoming events survive rain, cold

Gusty winds and drenching rains broke the early morning silence that Saturday. Those who had anticipated Homecoming for weeks woke with deflated enthusiasm. The weekend didn't have to be ruined though. Events the night before had gone on, uninterrupted — kickoff games, hectic but fun . . . crowning of a queen, with those watching, oblivious to the weather . . . lighting of the bonfire — its flames leaping high, not to be extinguished by a few raindrops. So Saturday continued too — sure, the parade was cancelled, all the frantically constructed floats rolled into a deserted shelter. But for the game, one only needed an extra blanket, an umbrella and a little enthusiasm. And no amount of rain could ruin Saturday night for those who listened to the mellow tones of Johnny Mathis or danced to the romantic and rock music at campus dances.

Rain, leaves, pelt autumn campus

Apparently no escape is possible from the Muncie monsoon season. Rain washed out the chalk messages of ill-fated Troika and watered down a damp Homecoming. Nuts too, lobbed by saucy squirrels, had to be dodged as well as the raindrops. Skittering leaves eventually gave way to lighter, noiseless snow, unaware of the campus world beneath: moratorium supporters and opponents, Whities and Blackies, panties and jocks.

"All we are saying . . . is give peace a chance."

For marches or memorial services. "Keep together. Don't answer back if they bait you." Sheltering violently sputtering candles with cold hands from a cold wind. "Stop the War! Bring 'em home!" Chanting, hands clasped, "All we are saying . . . is give peace a chance." "Are you listening Ball State? Do you hear us, Mr. Nixon?" Symbols, symbols everywhere. Slogan-plastered walls of VMC office in Wilson House . . . "Fighting for peace is like screwing for chastity." . . . black arm-bands . . . white picket-fence crosses . . . V of two fingers . . . the eternal flame at the Ad building . . . a dove. New direction: Venturing into Muncie, canvassing dorms in an attempt to be relevant. More leaflettes. More discussions. Gridders' sporadic play results in 5-5 season

Starting and ending in championship form the Ball State Cardinals split during the season with a 5-5 record in a grid campaign highlighted by upsets and outstanding individual performances.

Head Coach Wave Myers found an untested defense to be a proven strength. Offense became the question mark as the Cards scored 38 points just one week after being shut out. This inconsistency led to the ups and downs of Coach Myers' squad.

In a year when Ball State played its toughest schedule, the team was blessed with outstanding individuals. Punter Jack Morse claimed national attention with his booming spirals, while flanker Phil Faris was chosen the Cardinals' Most Valuable Player.

Quarterback and second highest Cardinal scorer Willie Lenzy (15) carries the ball past Don Burchfield in the Butler game.

Youthful Card harriers race to 6-5 season mark

Cardinal harriers ran to a 6-5 record, as underclassmen paced the squad. The team's inexperience resulted in inconsistency as the Redbirds ran in streaks. After capturing their first three meets, the Cards dropped their next three contests. They resumed their winning skein with a three match streak, then lost the final two outings. Sophomore Gary Dexheimer led the squad as the youthful runners battled for positions during the year. The year was the first for new Head Coach Jerry Rush-ton and Assistant Coach Oatess Archey.

Kickers win opener; lose final eight games

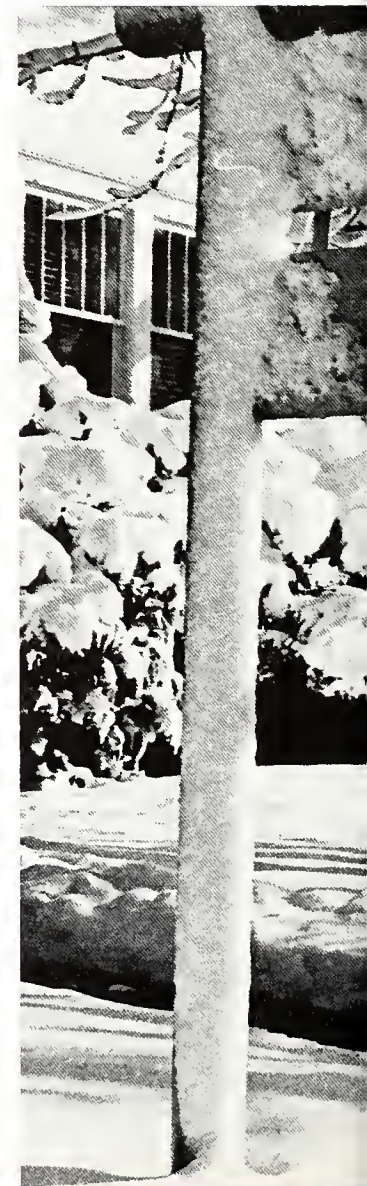

After winning their opening match of the season, 4-3 over DePauw, the Cardinal kickers were defeated in their final eight contests. First year coach, Arno Wittig, varied his line-up to no avail as the Redbirds were out played by their opponents.

Senior Jeff Kuroski distinguished himself at various positions as he excelled not only on offense but also on defense. Freshman Bob Poyer and Kuroski led the team in scoring with two goals each. Junior Tom Poznanski led the team in assists with three.

This limited offensive total was due in part to the caliber of competition the Redbirds were facing. Nationally ranked Michigan State thrashed the birds 8-0, while strong squads from Earlham and Dayton also handed the Cards setbacks.

Changing weather evokes contrasting dress patterns

Campus weather ficklely switched from -28 degree maxi coat temperature one day to 32 degree mini skirt weather the next. Shivering students, especially those from Johnson, scurried faster than the few squirrels. Boots plowed through snowdrifts, splashed through slush, and waded through puddle-lakes. Limps from ice spills were aided by oddly crooked, black canes. Bright pledge hats and peace buttons contrasted against grey snow-rain-sleet laden skies. Student life swirled as actively as snowflakes.

Cheerleaders stir up Card enthusiasm with spirit stick

Whether cavorting on football turf, or cart-wheeling on a polished gym floor, five pert cheerleaders proved why they were awarded a "spirit stick" at the National Spirit and Sportsman Workshop. Presented to the best cheerblock, the cheerleaders introduced their own "spirit stick" at BSU home games. Regenold stars as net squad looks to 1970-71 season

Ball state hoopmen point to the 1970-71 season to bring them the fruits of the hardships which they suffered this season. Only two seniors were on the squad as underclassmen carried the bulk of the load for Coach Bud Getchell's team. While attaining an 8-16 record, the squad found a consistent scorer in Jim Regenold, who scored more points than any other sophomore in the school's history. They also found a playmaker in guard Roger Law plus adequate rebounders in Marty Miggenberg and Greg Phenis.

Five victories in the last six matches gave Coach Chuck Guemple's swimming squad the best team record of any Ball State tank teams in the last nine years. The five victories coupled with a season opening win against Bradley gave the team a 6-5 meet record. The tankmen were also victorious in the Notre Dame Invitational and placed third in the Indiana State Invitational. The squad was led by a group of freshmen who recorded numerous victories in their initial year. A veteran squad was expected in 1971 since there were no seniors on the team.

Card gymnasts streak to 10-11 season mark

Performing in streaks, the largest Cardinal gymnastics squad in recent years posted a record of 10-11. During the middle of the season the team scored three consecutive victories and three matches later rebounded for four straight wins. The team's success, though, was hampered by two four-match losing streaks. Team balance proved to be a key factor as several team members consistently scored well.

With arrival of spring comes new life, activity

Spring came and with it a new awakening — an awakening to the realization that the school year was nearly over. While nature was beginning a new life, Ball State students were winding up a year with closed dances, end-of-the-year parties, student elections and cramming for finals. Intermingled with the busy activity, though, was a kind of lackadaisical carelessness that comes with spring as could be detected by sunbathers, bike riders and many outdoor enthusiasts besides the evening "joggers".

Outdoor folk-rock festivals alter typical fall afternoons

Free folk-rock festivals drew passers-by to the Arts Terrace for weekly Sunday-afternoon-in-the-park fall entertainment. Student Liberal Action Movement (SLAM) and The Only Alternative, a campus underground paper, got the "gig" together, but rock groups like W.T. Christie stopped playing after receiving complaints about noise. Perched on the steps, keeping things going with their guitar-plucked songs, were folk people, Phil Orth, Vee Knapp and Green Banner Hog Jug band.

Kent State deaths trigger opposing sentiments, pleas

Red arm bands replaced black, some to protest and some to mourn deaths of four Kent State students killed by the Ohio National Guard during a demonstration. Petitions flourished and a strike was called. Upon the Green, the militant, the pacifist, the horrified, and the curious forsook their classrooms and gathered to listen. Some spoke about the four dead, some about Viet Nam, Cambodia, the President, or the Blacks. Yet the attempt to communicate was made, and also an effort to listen.

Fetching flappers with "Boyfriends" and a men's "L.O.V.E." medley dressed in yellow and blue blazers captured Baker and Clevenger Spring Sing singles firsts. Card batmen finish with 14-16 record Fighting all season to move above the .500 won-loss mark, the 1970 Cardinal baseball squad ended the season 14-16, losing three of the last four games. The team started the season with victories over Florida opponents on a southern trip. Several successive losses during the mid-season evened the record which eventually ended on a losing note.

Tim Fitzgerald, Dick Collins and Dennis Barry led the baseball squad in hitting with each batting over the .350 mark. Pitchers Bob Coddington (3-2) and Mike Hoffar (3-5) were the top winners for Coach Ray Louthen.

Tennis team hopes rise, diminish with 6-12 season

The 1970 record of the tennis team proved to be disappointing as the squad posted a 6-12 mark, despite a host of experienced seniors and promising underclassmen. Serving to negate the experience, though, were a greatly toughened schedule and sub-par performance by many team members.

Having lost five top performers from the previous year, prospects for this year's golf team did not look good. However, the young squad led by lone senior Mel McFall and Butch Loeloff posted an outstanding season of 14-1 in dual matches. Loeloff averaged 76.5 this spring to lead the linksmen in that category. Senior captain McFall and Mike Roberts averaged 77.6.

The squad participated in several invitational tournaments and placed third at the Notre Dame tourney and eighth at Michigan State. Loeloff received a bid to the individual competition in the Ohio State NCAA meet.

Larger numbers enjoy intramurals

Expansion was the key for intramural athletics this year. With the mens' program being directed by Don Shondell and the womens' programs handled by Miss Stultz, the numbers of participants soared to record totals. The fall to spring programs included teams from residence halls, organizations and independent groups. In addition to the intramural activities, the womens' teams participated in competition with teams from other colleges and universities.

Spring cool; confidence aid Sigma Kappas; Keys take Bike-A-Thon honors

Wrapped in warm clothes, spectators anxiously waited for the traditional call: "Gentlemen, mount your bikes." Women's Trike-A-Thon preceded the men's 40-mile run with Sigma Kappa conquering the overall victory. As the women competed, pit crews prepared their machines and then the race was off. As the Fair-ground bleachers were deserted, the Black Keys carried the elation of their second consecutive victory to Saturday and Sunday's activities.

Overcast skies drive 1200 graduates inside

Drops of rain peppered black mortarboards as 1200 undergrads and grads filed into the Men's Gym. Guests peered down upon the sea of assembled degree candidates as John Scott, editor and publisher of the Lafayette Journal, addressed himself to today's generation gap. Unable to identify with the impersonal proceedings, each graduate "ceremonialized" his own months of labor leading to the awarding of his academic station and passed the time until actual conferment by mulling over the roster of graduates.

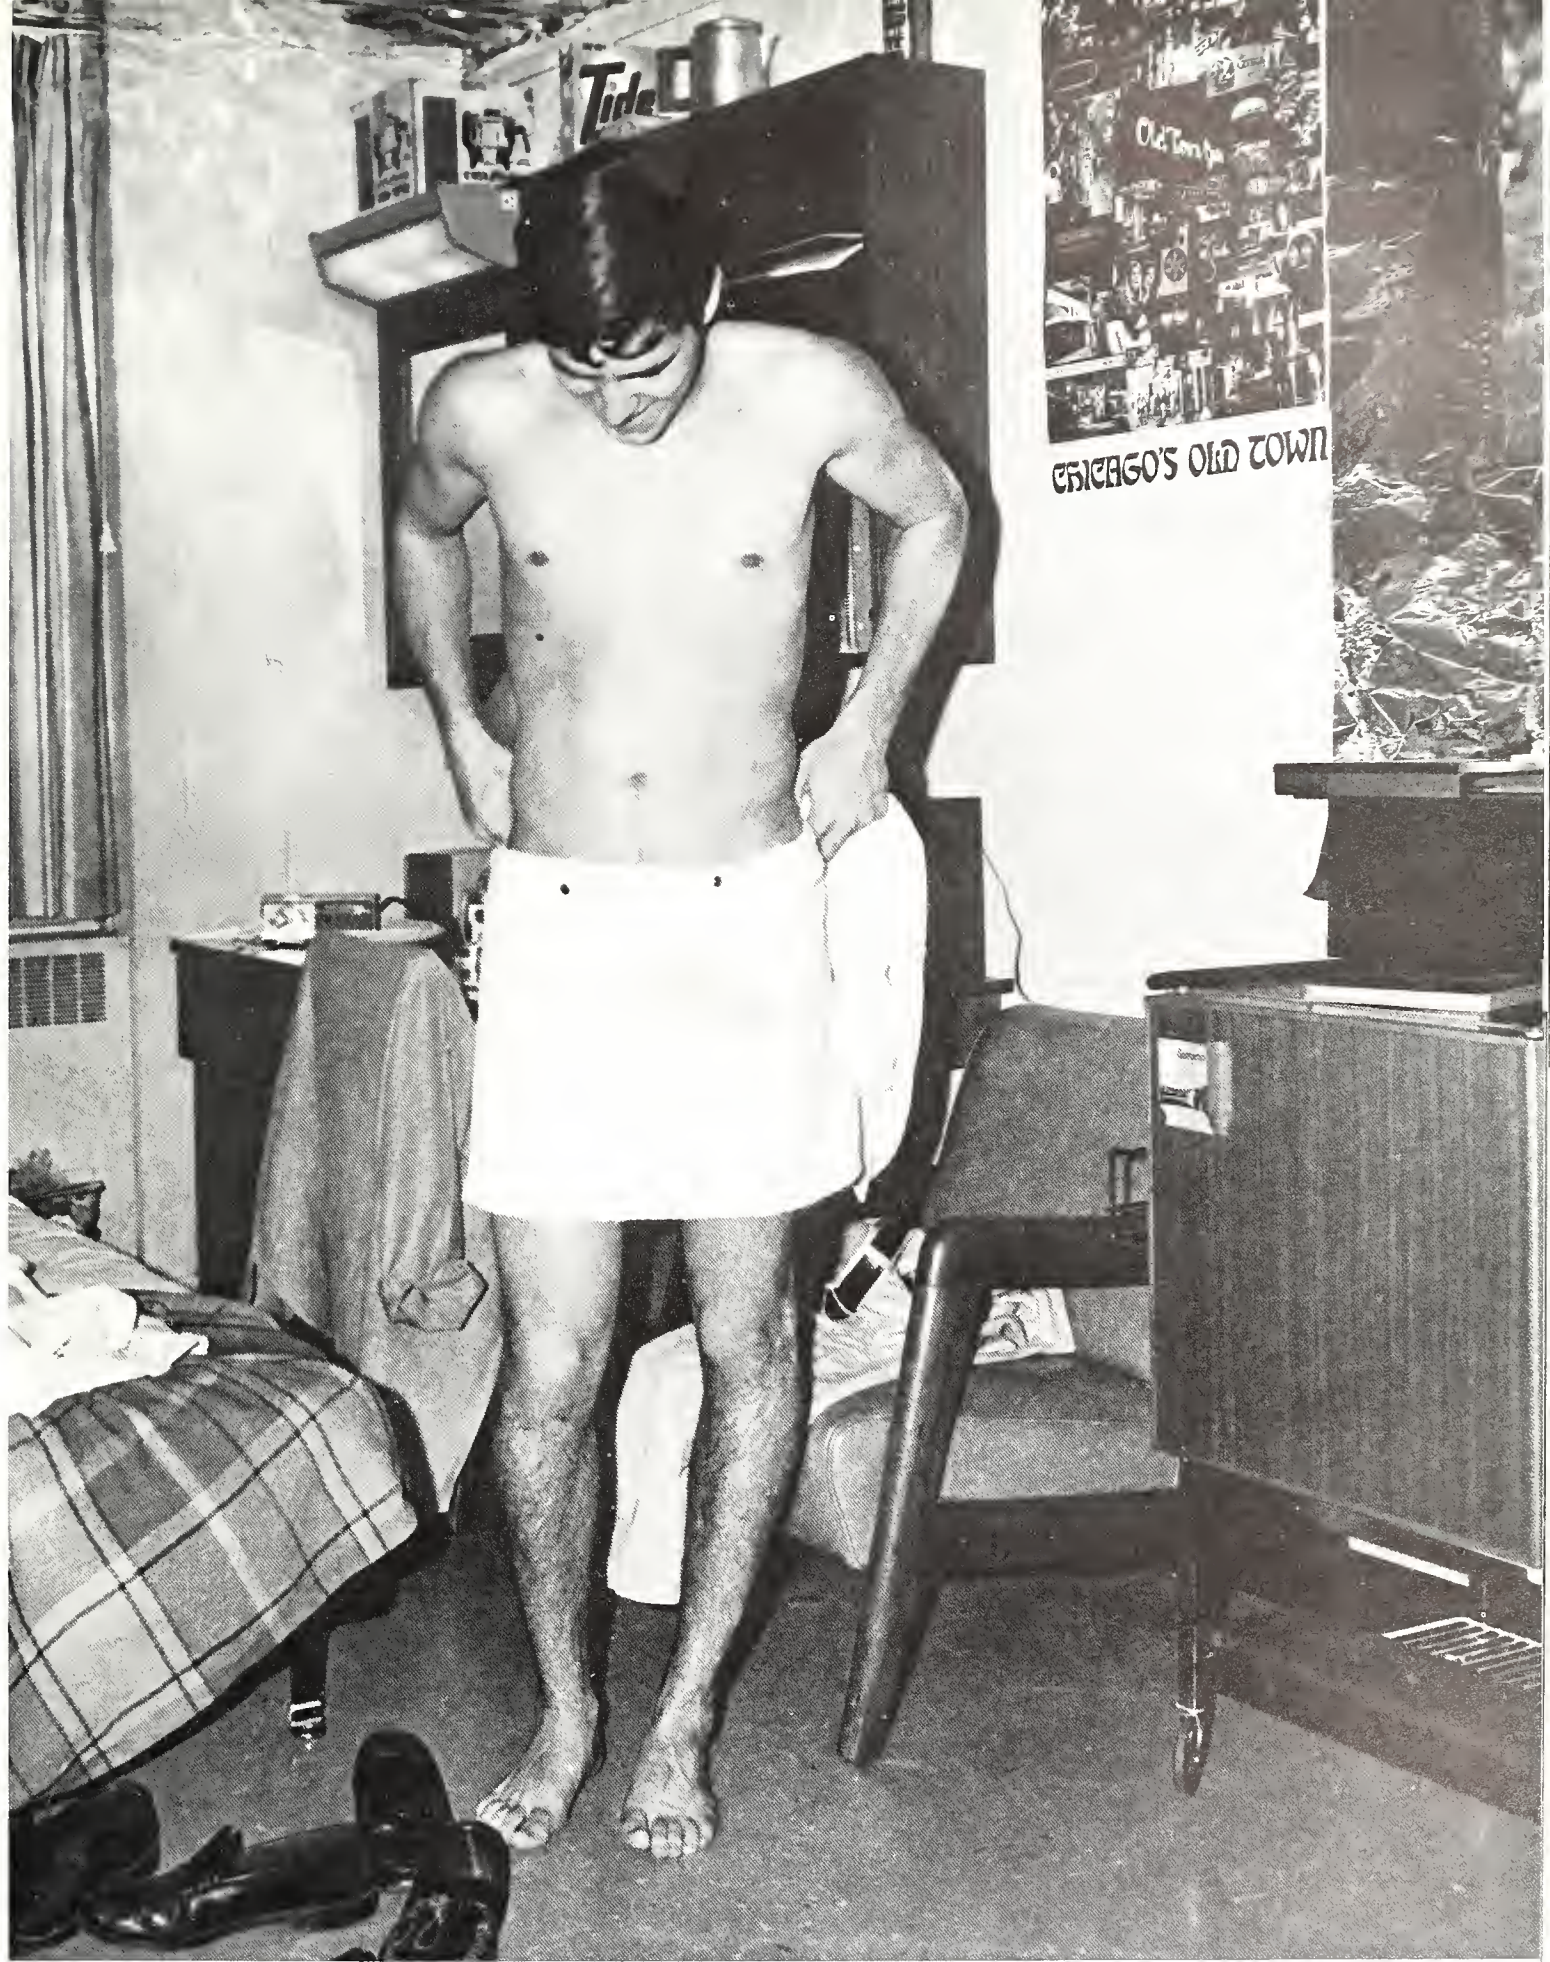

LIVING

Dorms, apartments, trailers become residences, retreats

Thinking of college life, one's first thoughts are often of classes, dates, events and the Tally. But there is another side — another way of learning — learning by living. It occurred when a person at the day's end went to that place called home, whether it was a dorm, an off-campus apartment or a BSU trailer where one was his own boss, and where there were those who shared disheartening and memorable experiences.

Off-campus residents seek independence, self-reliance

Off campus living is the answer for those students who find dorm life too restricting. Residing in a dorm assured one of a meal every day but there was something exciting about fixing up "your place," scrounging up meals and experiencing that new sense of freedom.

Whirlwind rush activities spiral to climatic pledge

Whirlwind rush spirals to climactic pledge night

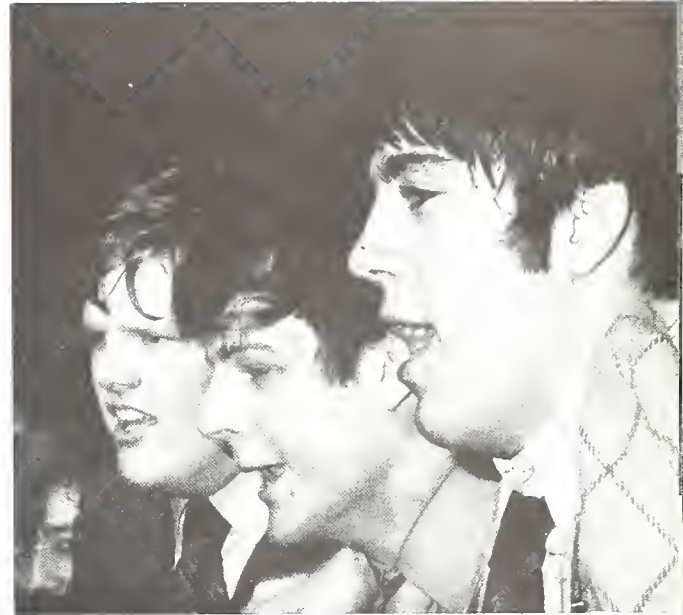

Kaleidoscopic collages of names and faces, places to be and decisions to make whirled around Greeks and rushees alike during the hectic, confusing weeks of formal rush.

Interest polls, information hours, registration, parties, coke dates, introductions, smokers, preference cards, invitations to dinner were only a series of steps leading to pledge night when 232 women and 243 men began pledge-ship — the start of sisterhood, brotherhood — Greek life.

Rush, final parties, coffee hours . . .

Board of Trustees

Serving as university policy-making body responsible for Ball State's administrative guide lines, the Board of Trustees is appointed by the Governor of the State of Indiana.

The Board must approve university appointments and salaries, budgets, legislative appropriations, and the purchasing and maintaining of university land and buildings. Also, the Board must endorse all curriculum innovations.

Architecture and Planning

The College of Architecture and Planning, Indiana's only state-supported professional school of architecture, began its fourth year of operation last fall with two five-year programs: Architecture, and Landscape Architecture.

Highlighting the guest lecture series was John Volpe, Secretary of the Department of Transportation who discussed "New Problems, New Processes, New Professionals." Exhibitions on such topics as the "Formal Structure in Indian Architecture" and "Architectural Preservation through Documentation" served as both a community and an educational service. The students have been involved in many current Indiana projects. Among these were: an inner city "New Town" in Gary, a memorial for Gus Grissom in Mitchell; and an entrance for the State Fairground.

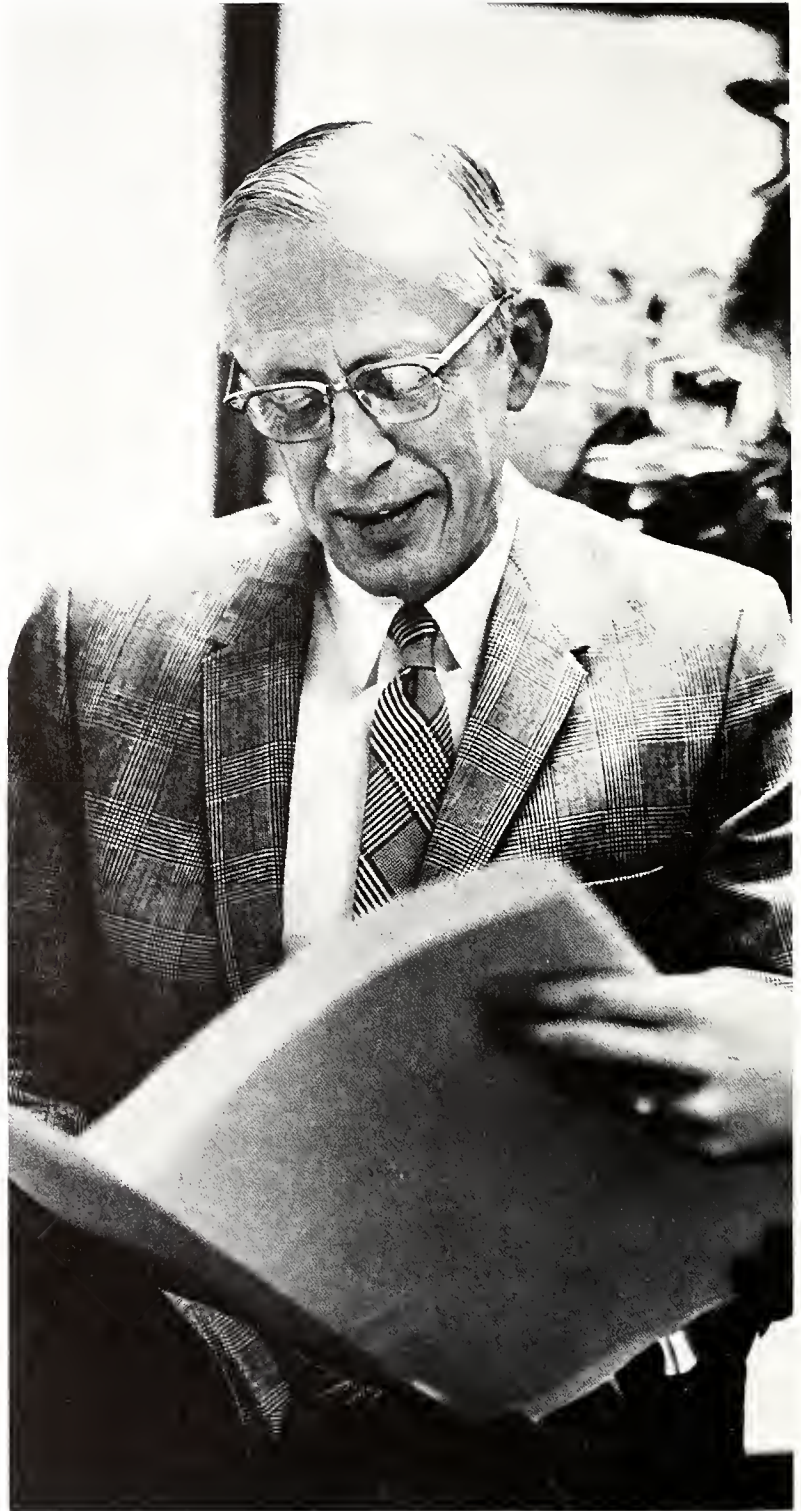

Meetings and press conferences occupied spare time of Dean Charles Sappenfield.

Business

Dr. George A. Terry, department of general business administration, initiated a self-evaluation program for that department and also devised a procedure which would draw business and Ball State together. A Waug calculator was also made available for student use.

Team members and faculty from the marketing department participated in an intercollegiate marketing game. The event was conducted by Michigan State University.

Keeping abreast of the various business department programs is one major responsibility of Dean Robert Bell.

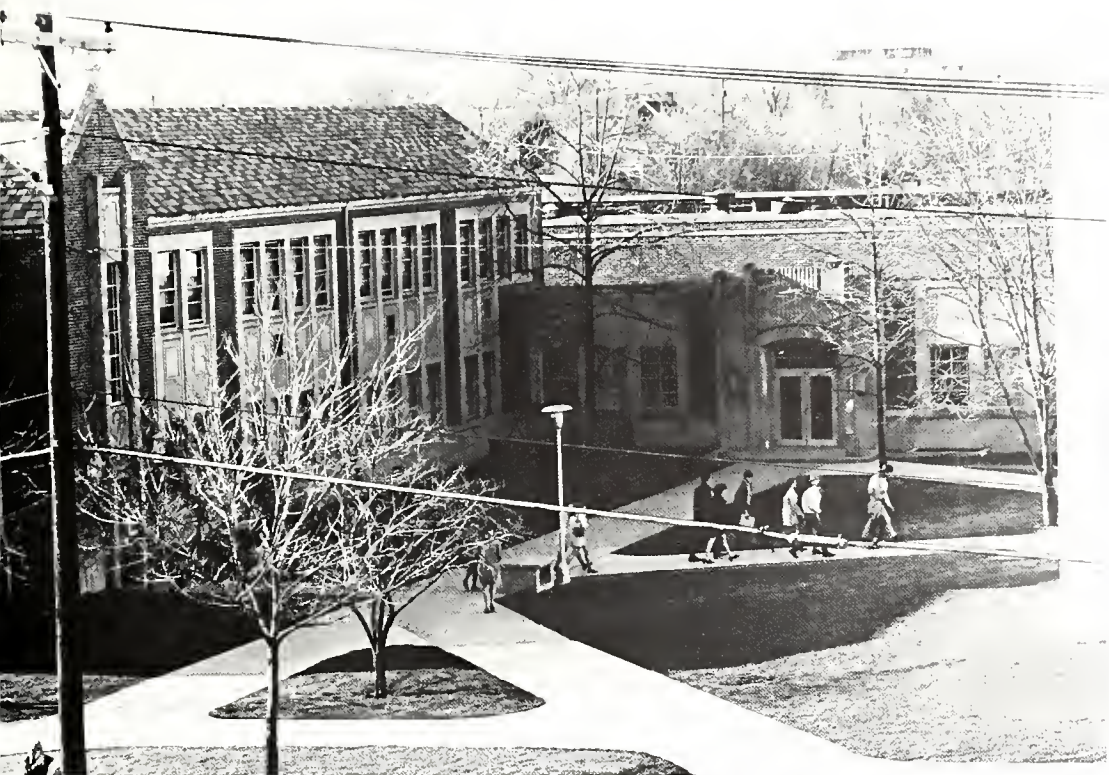

In his five years as dean of the College of Fine and Applied Arts, Lloyd Nelson has become well aware of the rapid growth characterizing that college in recent years.

Fine and Applied Arts

Purchase of new equipment, expansion into additional facilities and availability of a more extensive curriculum marked progress in the College of Fine and Applied Arts. In the nursing department a T.V. monitor with six viewing spaces was built so students could see tapes and films. An electrical discharge machine equipped the industrial education and technology department with the latest developments in machine metals. New facilities for the art department included a jewelry-making area and a slide room. A foods laboratory was opened for home economics students as well as another home management house and additional dressing rooms. Expanded programs in judo, modern dance and intramural sports were developed in the physical education department.

Although a new gymnasium and swimming pool have been constructed, the old Ball Gym is still used for many physical education classes.

The Practical Arts Building houses such "fine and applied arts" as home economics and industrial arts.

Included in the College of Fine and Applied Arts is the physical education department.

The Arts Building, once the home of music majors, is now frequented by art and language majors.

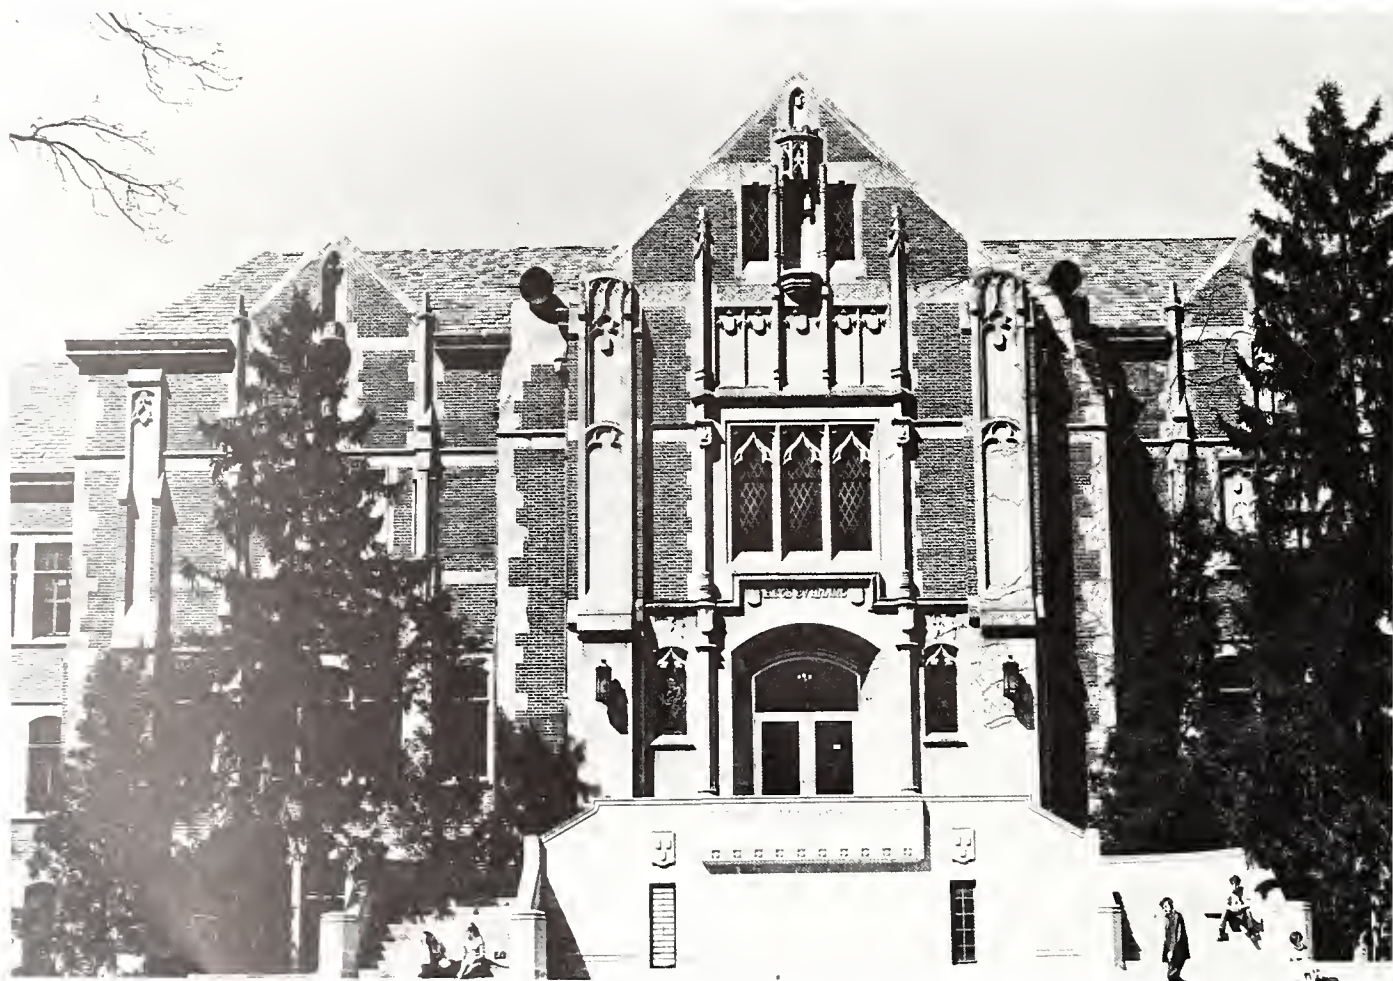

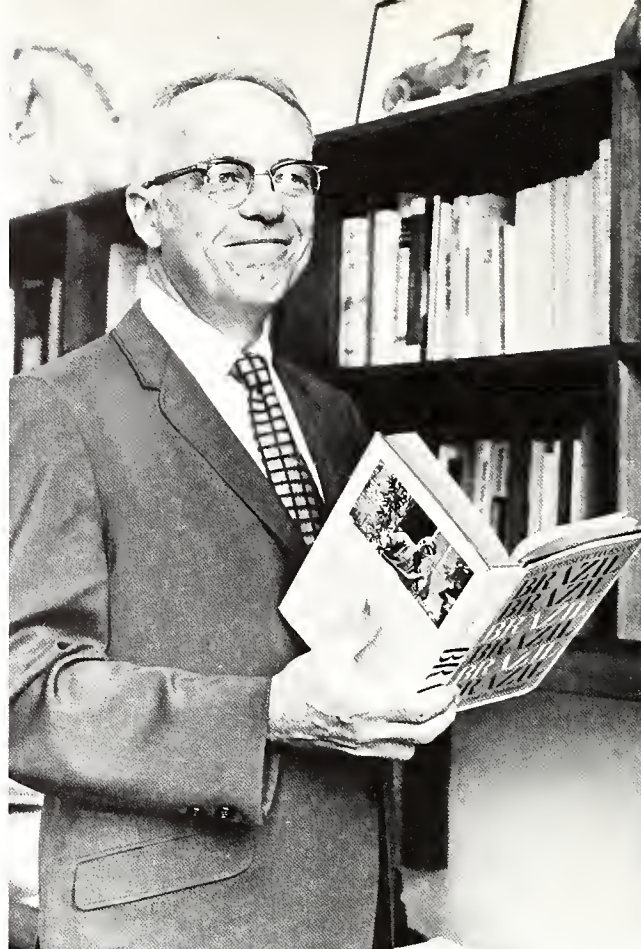

Science and Humanities

New and more effective facilities were opened to many departments upon the completion of the multi-story Life Science building spring quarter. In addition to these increased facilities, the biology department received "Wild-life Area," a gift of the R. H. Coopers; and, "Wheeler Orchid Collection," a gift of the W. O. Wheelers. Neuroanatomy was taught for the first time in physiology. Dr. Robert E. Van-Atta was selected as the new head of the chemistry department.

The center for journalism added part of a third building on College Avenue. Theater productions, speech and hearing clinics and numerous debates comprised the major portion of the speech department's activities.

An academic summer in Europe is being offered in the fields of French, German and Spanish, by the foreign language department.

When not faced with problems of a growing university, Dean Robert Carmen spent his spare time reading.

Interior changes in the old Science Building brought the cross-campus move in spring

Bicycles became an important mode of transportation for students who spent hours in the English building for classes, speech meets and theatre productions.

Warmth of the Physical Science building brought relief to students during winter.

Teachers College

Several new programs were initiated in the Teacher's College. The department of counseling psychology added a program which offers a M.A. in counseling at three U.S. Air Force bases in both England and Germany. Also a practicum Center was developed to serve as a community referral and as a training aid for departmental programs.

This Is How It Is In El Ed At Ball State, the first booklet written and illustrated by students, was published by the department of elementary education, which also established a special program for teachers of the culturally disadvantaged.

Other innovations included: a study council library in educational administration and supervision; a physiological lab in experimental psychology; and an added special education course allowing students to help teachers.

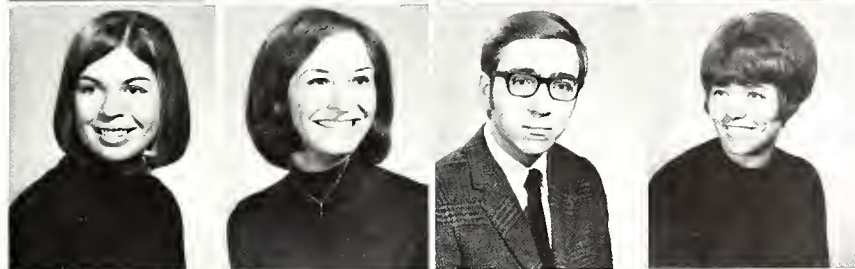

Learning to rely on the services of the telephone, Dean John Dunworth supervises the numerous activities of the Teachers College.

BOOKENDS THEME

*"Time it was,
And what a time it was,
It was . . .
A time of innocence,
A time of confidences.
Long ago . . . it must be . . .
I have a photograph.
Preserve your memories;
They're all that's left you."*

— Paul Simon

Without the help and guidance of many people, the 1970 ORIENT would never have been a reality. The staff extends its deepest appreciation to the following: Ed and Mike Hackleman and Ralph Van Dyke of Delmar Printing Company; Ray Dobbs and Scott Nozawa of Root Photographers; Jack Bundy, S. K. Smith representative; Gordon Smith, financial adviser, and Dr. Louis Ingelhart, director of student publications. Special thanks goes to Lillian Junas, editorial adviser, who provided everything from photographic assistance to doughnuts at Saturday morning work sessions. Her expert advice and guidance in many areas will never be forgotten.

... don't run through life's web of experiences.

*"Seize the day,"
awaken to new horizons of happenings, vehemently consume your world once unnoticed.*

*Be aware,
perceive the world
beyond your sphere of influence as you never have before.*

*Life is open to familiar,
well-worn avenues,
but frontiers wait for your f-o-o-t-s-t-e-p-s to mark your proclamation of awareness and declaration of...*
